MERCUTIO said of his wound,

"It was not as deep as a well, or divide
As a gate, but much deeper."

Parties B will not rat the dead,
But they enter the shun, exit the depressed,
Add a rose tint to the social circle,
And render life a thing to be enjoyed.

Alas! the thing itself is quite enjoyable.

Never mind, though, those in such pleasant shape.

Tender youth, declining age, the mind

Over wrought by mental care, more gentle leaves.

And the weak of men, all find these Bitter
The balm of life and source of health.

Dearly not a trust. Conveniently deposited In every nook wherever civilization extends,
Can be obtained, true genuine, and sure.

A Friend in Need.—Those requiring confidential medical assistance should apply to some regular educated physician who has been in practice for many years, and such a man as Dr. D. R. WHITFIELD, who is daily during numbers of both sexes, and every age, who have been to him, the self-same Doctors in this city, and the various hospitals, and who, with his friends, will take stock of their condition.
His terms are more moderate than those of mere boasting pretenders, whose only purpose is to flatter the unfortunate, and then advise them, that it is not too late to apply to him.

Call him in once, or you may regret it ever afterwards.
